Rotarians recently visited the governor to protect the veto of Mrs. Hadley's salary and were told by the governor that it was a "mistake" and that efforts will be made to "find" money by which to continue the work.

Filling the position of secretary to the director of education, a new job, will be left to John L. Clifton, who will become director of education July 15. The secretary will receive $1,800.

Amount of money expended for salaries under the new arrangement will be exactly the same as before.

Deputy Auditor Harry D. Silver, representing State Auditor Tracy on the board of control Thursday sought approval of the proposed reorganization. Merlin Breneman, superintendent of budget, opposed the action, declaring it was the wish of Governor Donahey to await the approval of the new superintendent of education. Mr. Silver insisted that there be immediate action, which course was followed.

LEN BRIGNER SUICIDES AT DARBYVILLE

Loses His Best Girl, and Decides Life Isn't Worth Living—Used Shotgun.

Leonard Brigner, aged 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Brigner, shot and killed himself Thursday at noon at the home of his parents in Darbyville.

The young man used a double barreled shotgun, but only one shell was exploded, the load passing thru his neck, killing him instantly. The young man's body was found by his mother, who was in the yard feeding chickens when she heard the report of the gun, but paid no attention to it, as she thought it was a backfiring report from one of his trucks.

The cause of taking his life will never be known, but it is supposed that it was despondency over the fact of the marriage of the girl with whom he had been keeping company for the past two years. She lived in New Lexington and he had returned from that town Thursday morning and seemed to be in the best of spirits. On his bed lay open a marriage announcement of the girl and this is supposed to have led to the sudden resolve to take his life.

In the absence of the coroner, Dr. F. E. Ginder was delegated to act for that official.

The funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock Eastern time at the Methodist church. Interment will be made at Darbyville.

Weaver; Recorder, George E. Roth; standard bearer, Charles Bell; sword bearer, H. H. Snyder; warden, Walker Baughman; sentinel, A. T. Hammel.

MRS. SUSAN SPANGLER DEAD.

The death of Mrs. John Spangler 86, occurred at her home 306 Washington avenue, Lancaster, Tuesday at 4:30 p. m. as a result of infirmities.

Besides the husband, who is 92 years of age, she is survived by two children, Edward Spangler of near Lancaster and Mrs. A. J. Eck, of East Gay street, Columbus, also one grandchild, Miss Edith Noggle of Oak street, Columbus.

The funeral was held at one o'clock Thursday from the home, with Rev. E. B. White, U. B. church, officiating. Burial was made at Maple cemetery.

BYRD'S PARTY SAFELY LANDS FRENCH CHANNEL

Men Reach Shore on Rubber Raft From Ver-Sur-Mer—Plane Badly Damaged.

The transatlantic flight of Commander Byrd, after hard luck and tremendous difficulty, ended just after dawn Friday in the sea 200 yards from the beach of the little seaside resort of Ver-Sur-Mer, 175 miles west of Paris.

The aviators came ashore on the collapsible rubber raft carried on the plane, towed by a boat, and immediately went to sleep in a little cottage to which they were taken. The mono plane America, was badly damaged—how badly awaited determination till the wornout fliers should have a good sleep.

From advices reaching Paris, it appears the plane came down at 5:45 o'clock, which means they were in the air 43 hours, 21 minutes from the time they left Roosevelt field, New York, with Paris as the goal.

Presumably the fliers faced death in their flight that lasted for almost two days. For hours over the Atlantic they were unable to see the ocean or determine with any accuracy, except with the aid of the radio, just where they were. On three occasions even the tips of the wings were obscured from the anxious man in the pilot's seat.

TRY US FOR A WANT AD

TWO PEN PRISONERS EXPRESS WISH TO DIE

One Would Go To Chair; Other Hopes Operation Will Kill Him.

Death is welcomed by two prisoners in Ohio penitentiary, both of them serving 10 to 25 years, one for burglary and larceny, the other for robbery. Frank Stencel, 35, Williams County, has requested the warden to let him die in the electric chair in the place of one of the condemned men in the annex. "My life is not sweet any more. I am run down in health, weak, suffering nervously and worrying. I want to die in the chair and be over with," Stencel wrote in part. Warden Thomas is not in a position to grant his request.

Roy Copeland, 24, Stark County, who will undergo an operation for goiter today, had threatened to go on a hunger strike, but decided to wait until after the operation through which he said "he hoped he never would come."

Mental anguish caused relatives by his imprisonment and the fact that his wife has not written to him for some time are the causes of his melancholy.—O. S. Journal.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Miss Helen Schiear was the delightful hostess at a beautifully appointed six o'clock dinner-bridge last evening at her home in North Scioto street. The patriotic colors of red, white and blue were used throughout the house and also were carried out in the table decorations and refreshments. Beautiful red, white and blue pom-poms centered the five tables where the dinner was served and miniature flags were also placed on the tables. Red roses, white daisies and blue corn flowers added to the decorations. The place cards were patriotic emblems and the nut cups were also of the same colors.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. W. C. Watson, of New Lexington and Miss Ruth Holman, of Washington, D. C. At the conclusion of the game prizes were awarded Misses Helen Hitler and Lucille Rooney.

When Mrs. T. C. Millar and Mrs. George P. Foresman entertained with a luncheon-bridge at noon yesterday and again in the evening with a dinner-bridge their home in South Court street was profusely decorated in the season's most beautiful flowers. Mrs. A. M. Weigand and Mrs. J. R. Hedges received prizes at the morning party and Miss Miriam Ruggles and Mrs. L. M. Mader received the highest scores in the evening.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. J. R. Hedges and Mrs. Paul Cromley, of Ashville; Mrs. John H. Scott and Mrs. Clarence Gustasson, of Mediapolis, Iowa.

Tree Preserved in Ice

A Canadian government exploration party recently came across a spruce tree which had been preserved in the ice of the great North American glacier in Alaska. The glacier had receded and left the tree exposed after an imprisonment estimated at hundreds of thousands of years. The spruce was apparently one hundred twenty-four years old when the glacier enveloped it.

Sparrow Sweeps Fields

One of the most efficient sweepers of the fields is the vesper sparrow, which we may recognize by the white outer tail feathers, says Nature Magazine. Many dwellers of the grass, insect larvae, leaf hoppers, army worms, young grasshoppers, are devoured during the summer; and innumerable weed seeds make up their fall and winter diet.

COAL STRIKE LITTLE FELT

Other Industries Keep Ohio Mining Towns Busy.

New Lexington, June 29.—(UP.)—A stranger going through the Corning, Gloucester, New Lexington, Nelsonville and Hobson railroad yards would never guess a coal strike existed.

The yards are blocked daily with long trains of West Virginia coal, continually pouring through Ohio. Despite the coal strike, other business is good.

At New Lexington, sand mines, tile plants and building is taking care of every idle man.

At Crooksville, the potteries are working full force and there are very few idle men.

At Corning many men are working on the railroads and at Shawnee brick plants are working, giving employment to many miners. Brick plants and oil workers at Somerset, Nelsonville, Murray City and New Straitsville have possibly 1,000 unemployed miners.

Blue and White Checks Worn by "Movis" Actress

Checks and plaids add novelty to the new two-piece frocks. Appropriate for street wear is this frock of blue and white checks worn by Gwen Lee, motion picture player, in "His Brother From Brazil." The frock is trimmed with black buttons, a black kid belt and a dark shoulder flower.

Greens Take Lead Among Colors for the Season

The crystal-trimmed white frock, which for the last few weeks has practically dominated the evening mode, has to a certain extent yielded the palm of popularity to those in the pale, faint shades of flesh and pink, or green in light almond and chartreuse tones.

This tendency toward shades of green in preference to the pink tones has been growing for some time, and from the Riviera resorts comes word that the more delicate shades of green are rapidly supplanting other colors for evening wear.

Nile and absinthe, as well as the shades already mentioned, are given a most prominent place in the collections of new frocks designed for resort wear, and the use of these colors is not confined to evening. One finds them chosen for the charming little semi-sports frocks and for the sheer lovely chiffons and georgettes that are worn for tea and dancing.

Lovers' Knot Brooch Now Used to Fasten Drapery

A curious effect of the new jewelry fashion is the popularity of the lovers' knot brooch. This resembles the brooch worn in past days to safeguard a small plain gold watch worn by ladies on the left shoulder. Nowadays, however, the lovers' knot brooch is used to fasten drapery on a gown, or as the motif relieving an otherwise plain hat.

Earrings are still very much in evidence and may be of almost any design. Those that rely for their effect on the color contrast of precious stones are probably the most popular, but others in the form of pendants are equally fashionable. Mexican or "fire" opals appear in this connection to be gaining in popularity.

Yellow Velvet Gown

Yellow is coming into favor by way of velvet for evening wear. Blondes favor the sunny shade particularly. One of the pretty models in yellow is viewable at the house of Drecol in Paris. It is made of pale tinted velvet—so delicate it is almost ivory. A girdle of rich gold braid studded with bronze ornaments holds the fullness of the skirt in front. The back of the model shows a bodice of black lace.

Vogue of Plaits

The use of plaits on frocks that are distinctly sport in character has much to recommend it. In the first place plaiting is simple enough to be in keeping with the general effect of simplicity, and in the second it permits of the fullness necessary for freedom of motion without disturbing the slender lines of the silhouette.

Up-to-Minute Trimmings

The trimmings on day frocks are particularly delicate and attractive. They are made with tucked bands, stitching, tiny plaits, gauze or plisse bands or borders of laced narrow bands in the same fabric as the frock or in the one used for the trimming. Many decorations in chenille and wool and wool and silk combined.

Hosiery Colors

The smartest colors in hosiery are those that are on the beige tones, with no suggestion of pink in their coloring. Gun-metal, with black heels, and other duo-tone effects are very popular and equally smart.

Youthful Fashions

A new version of the peasant frock for the younger set is of a heavy rough silk with gay embroidered motifs on the full sleeves gathered into a cuff.

Would Bar ChildrenFrom Seeing "Movies"

Of stimulants to the emotions motion pictures are one of the most violent known to the modern world, according to the French psychiatrist, Doctor Toulouse. In the course of long researches he has studied the reaction on the breathing and on the blood circulation of healthy adults
during the projection of various sorts of films. From his findings Doctor Toulouse draws attention to the dangers presented to the health, particularly of children, by films which are too exciting. A report issued by a Japanese physical culture and health committee is much commented on here, as it sets forth even more for-mable conclusions. Children up to twelve years, says the report, are extremely fatigued after only a few minutes of watching a film. The fatigue is not so marked in comedies as in big dramatic films and reaches its maximum when there is musical accompaniment. Hence it is advised that no children under thirteen should be allowed to attend the movies.

Searchlight Crew Makes Perfect Air Test Score

Washington.—A perfect score has been credited to the searchlight and sound locator crew of battery A of the Sixty-third Coast artillery at Fort Winfield Scott, Calif., which conducted recent night tests of its anti-aircraft detection equipment. An airplane which made eight simulated bombing raids on a two and a half-mile square area defended by the battery was detected and illuminated by the searchlights on each occasion. The plane crossed the area at varied intervals
at an average altitude of 8,000 feet.

Spotless Town

Use Fish as Illuminant

The candle fish is still being used by the Indians in some parts of British Columbia for illuminating purposes. After catching the candle fish,
the Indians place them in a dry, sheltered place and wait till they have shrunk and all the water has evaporated from them. They then set the head or tail of the fish alight and use
the carcass as they would a torch.
There is so much oil in the carcass
that it produces a bright, steady flame which burns slowly.

SIR KNIGHTS PICNICKED IN ZWICKER PARK

Games, Contests and Big
Eats on Grounds --Dancing
in the C. A. C. Gym.

Thursday afternoon the Knights
Templar of Franklin, Ross, Hocking, Fairfield and Pickaway counties all joined together in an old-fashioned picnic in the beautiful Zwicker grove
on the Ringgold pike.

The outing was in charge of District Commander John P. Kuhns and Chief of Staff W. D. Cherry, of Columbus, and Grand Standard Bearer, Robert H. Pausch, of Columbus, was the representative of Grand Commander W. Edwin Palmer of Akron.

The afternoon was spent in games
and this feature was in charge of Sir Knight Robert G. Colville. The
amusements consisted of horseshoe
pitching, races of all kinds and a base ball game between picked men from the Columbus and Circleville commanderies. The score was a lopsided
one, 13 to 5, in favor of Columbus.

Sir Knight B. R. Bales was the star player, knocking out a home run and was not doing his best.

A parade headed by the band of Mt. Vernon commandery, No. 1, of Columbus, marched south on Court street to Franklin, west on Franklin
to Scioto, north on Scioto to Main,
east on Main to Court and north to picnic grounds. More than a hundred Knights were in line and as they passed the court house, Sir Knight Harvey J. Sweyer played, "Onward,
Christian Soldiers" on the chimes.

At the intersection of Main and
Court streets Captain General Harry Hartman staged an exhibition drill
which elicited the praise and admiration of all who were so fortunate as to witness it.

On the return to the grounds a splendid picnic dinner was served on long tables and free coffee and ice cream were furnished. Thruout the afternoon free lemonade and ice cream were dispensed.

After the dinner a large number of the Templars, their families and friends adjourned to the C. A. C.
gymnasium where dancing was enjoyed until eleven o'clock.

Altogether it was a most enjoyable day and showed that these annual meetings are of real value in giving to the members of the order and their families an opportunity to know their neighbors better and proved that association and fellowship go a long way toward making life worth while.

The success of this venture is an earnest that the picnic of Columbus,
Logan, Chillicothe, Lancaster and Circleville commanderies, whenever and wherever held will be a great success.

King Likens Docked Tail Horse to Bobbed Hair

Paris.—According to a recent writer in the "Carnet de la Semaine," King George V. after a notable race, strolled around to the paddock to get a close look at the horses. Among them was a fine thoroughbred with his tail cropped close. The king looked at him in silence for a few moments, while the attendants awaited some word of praise such as he had bestowed upon other horses. At length the president of the club ventured to ask:

"May I trust that your majesty is pleased?"

"No," replied the king, meditatively; "no; I do not like at all such trimming of a horse's tail. I think it is very ugly."

Then, after a moment, and with a smile, he added:

"It reminds me of a woman with bobbed hair!"

PAST MASTERS EXEMPLIFIED THIRD DEGREE

Wednesday evening, June 29, one of the best meetings in the history of Pickaway lodge of Masons was held and the Master Mason degree was conferred on one candidate.

The session was out of the ordinary because of the fact that the work was exemplified by past masters of Pickaway, Logan Elm and Heber lodges.

A feature of the meeting was that one of the principal parts of the ceremony was taken by the father of the candidate and it was so splendidly done that it made a profound impression, not only on the candidate, but on all who were present.

At the conclusion of the work, refreshments of sandwiches, ice cream cake and coffee were served in the banquet rooms.

GOOD HOME LOST

A tramp asked a farmer's wife one day for a piece of bread. As she gave him a piece of pie she said:

"Poor fellow, you look as if you'd seen better days."

"Yes, so I have, ma'am," said the tramp. He shoveled about a cubic foot of pie into his mouth with his knife and added: "Once I dwelt in marble halls."

"And how," said the farmer's wife, "did you come to lose such a nice home?"

"Term expired," said the tramp.

MACCABEES PILGRIMAGE TO DETROIT

Celebration From July 21 to 23—Rapid Growth—5,000 Lodges in United States.

Five thousand Maccabees from all over the society's international jurisdiction will gather in Detroit July 23, for the dedication of the new $2,500, Maccabee temple and international headquarters. Delegations will make the pilgrimage to Detroit from every state and province of Canada in special cars and automobile caravans.

The dedication celebration will take up three days, July 21 to 23 and will be witnessed by many national and state officials who are members of the order and officials of other fraternal associations. Governor Fred W. Green, of Michigan, and Supreme Commander A. W. Frye will deliver the principal speeches and other speakers will be Mayor John W. Smith, of Detroit, and John C. Snyder, president of the National Fraternal congress. Maccabee drill teams from many cities will take part in exhibition drills during the three days' celebration, and a mammoth automobile parade five miles long will tour the city. The ceremonies will be broadcasted over station WGHP.

The Maccabees was organized in London, Ontario, in 1878. It spread to the United States and was reorganized with headquarters at Port Huron, Michigan in 1883, and headquarters were moved to Detroit in 1908. Ground was broken for the temple December 29, 1925. It is said to be the most beautiful office building in Detroit and the finest home office owned by any fraternal benefit society in the world.

The year, 1926, was the most successful in the order's history, according to the report which will be made by Supreme Commander Frye, when the membership was increased to a quarter of a million and assets to $34,000,000. The Maccabees is the second oldest fraternal benefit association in America and is financially the strongest. Its membership includes men, women and the children of members and it has 5000 lodges thruout the country.

Birds Nest in April

In April, bluebirds, robins, chickadees, nuthatches, and phoebes begin housebuilding, says Nature Magazine. A few well-placed houses are certain to have tenants before the month is very old, and by setting them low along fences or on the laundry line poles, one may watch the birds closely.

Early Suspension Bridge

The first suspension bridge built in America was a wooden structure erected over the Mohawk river at Schenectady, N. Y., between 1805 and 1808 by Theodore Burr, brother of Aaron Burr. It was torn down in 1873.

AMUSEMENTS

Director Frank Lloyd has made another remarkable picture for Paramount with the inspired Esther Ralston, Gary Cooper, Einar Hanson and Norman Trevor.

"Children of Divorce," now playing at the Met theater, tears a new slash in the veil covering the evils of modern divorce and pictures in bold colors life in the youthful ranks of the wealthy social class.

The cast headed by Clara Bow and Esther Ralston, both of whom are starred, and Einar Hanson and handsome young Gary Cooper, give wonderfully fine consistent performances. Too much cannot be said in praise of Miss Bow as the girl who forces marriage on the man of her choice (Cooper) in spite of his love for Esther Ralston. Miss Ralston, in Esther Ralston, in turn, as lovely, dignified Jean Waddington, suffers her disappointment contagiously as she found ready sympathy flowing from the audience that saw the picture on the opening night here.

Miss Bow, Miss Ralston and Mr. Cooper in their big scene where Jean learns that Kitty and Ted have been married during a night of revelry, rise to the historic heights as actresses and actor. Theirs were parts that might well have been given more experienced players, but their youth stood them in good stead and even added to the appeal of the characterizations.

Taken all in all, "Children of Divorce" couldn't possibly have been other than a good picture. Owen Johnson wrote the story. Remember his "Stover at Yale" and "The Enemy Sex?" Frank Lloyd translated it to the screen. The four leading players and a fine supporting cast carry it thru and when one has Norman Trevor, Hedda Hopper, Edward Martin and Julia Swayne Gordon in support, you have nothing less than the best that's to be obtained!

Civil War in China Boosts Chop Suey

London.—The upheaval in China has brought the Chinese "chop suey joints" into great favor with London's exclusive society set. An after-theater tour of Piccadilly Circus or the Strand at night reveals that the "best people" who formerly sought only the most expensive and most exclusive hotels to enjoy a quiet meal away from "the rabble" are now patronizing Chinese restaurants. It seems that society's latest fancy is to absorb a little Far Eastern atmosphere and to see Chinese at close range.

FARMER CLAIMS ROYAL DESCENT

Britain, Making $10 a Week, Traces Blood Direct to Saxon Kings.

Berd n. England.—King Harold's direct family descendant, Thomas W. Goodwin, a farm laborer near here, has no regrets as to the outcome of the battle of Hastings, which crushed the Saxon rule and deprived him of the right to the British crown.
"William the Conqueror was a hustler, I imagine from what I hear," said Goodwin, "and hustling counted, even in 1066 just as it does today."
"A castle means nothing to me," went on the farmer whose ancestry goes back in an unbroken line to Earl Goodwin, the father of King Harold. "and I am perfectly satisfied with my lot."

Wife Contented Also.

Mrs. Goodwin, too, is contented in her thatched roof cottage—her home since babyhood—40 miles from London. There are three children—Cyril, aged eight, is known throughout the neighborhood as "Little King Harold," "Princess" Irene is fourteen and her sister, Catherine, is four.
The Goodwins have relatives in the United States, but they lost trace of them years ago.

Goodwin first heard of the startling family news this year from the parish vicar, Rev. Kynaston Hudson, who for years has been looking up the genealogy of many of his parishioners. His lineage is vouched for by England's Domesday book.

"I thought at first that I might gain a thousand pounds one way or another out of this 'discovery' and then I'd buy some land," said Goodwin, "but it appears now that I will never get a farthing, but still I have no complaint to make."

Earns $10 a Week.

Goodwin, who is forty-two, earns about $10 a week. His house rent is free. He has never owned an acre of land.

After the famous battle, fought chiefly with spears and battle axes, when Harold and all of his troops were slain, King Harold's family lost everything and few of the Goodwins since have been land owners.

"I have heard that, since my ancestry has been linked up with the last of the Saxon kings, some of my neighbors remarked that I was a high stepper," Goodwin chuckled to the interviewer who followed him about a 14-acre field while he drove a team hauling a barley sower, "but the fact is I was always what they call a high stepper—I acquired that habit stepping over furrows in the field."

"I had a look at Buckingham palace once, but I prefer the old house on the hill, up there."

Airplane Halts Stampede of Wild Reindeer Herd

Nome, Alaska.—How an airplane swooped down and turned the tide when a herd of 4,000 reindeer stampeded was told here by Eskimo herders. Up the Kuskokwim river near Bethel natives driving their herds toward new pastures faced total losses when the animals from no apparent cause sniffed the air and made off east.

Calves and yearlings were crushed by the rushing animals. Ten to fifteen miles beyond wild caribou would soon be passing on spring migrations. The native herders knew if the two types of animals merged the reindeer would be lost.

Out of the southern sky suddenly appeared an airplane bound toward Nome. The aviator sized up the situation and acted quickly. With a long swoop eastward he soared just above the milling animals. The leaders veered immediately and soon had the herds going in the direction of home corrals. The herders, more frightened than the reindeer, kept running in the opposite direction.

Selects Bark Diet to Live to Be 350

Tokyo.—An amazing secret of longevity is claimed to have been discovered by a Korean, regarded as a saint, named Skajkinan—amazing in its simplicity as well as in its anticipated results. For it consists in nothing but a diet of water and small cakes made of pine bark.

Upon such food Skajkinan is said to have subsisted for many years. He is now sixty years old and "still going strong," and expresses the utmost confidence in living for 200 years longer, thus rounding out three centuries and a half.

Skajkinan is a hermit who lives on Korea's holy mountain, Kongosan, and who has now come to Tokyo to tell of his method of longevity to the members of the Japanese Peer club. He says he found the secret inscribed in ancient books, which record that in this manner men have prolonged their lives to 500 years. He sleeps only two hours a day, massages himself and performs other hygienic exercises according to the holy teachings of the Buddhists, and his food consists of a few of the pine bark cakes and one or two glasses of water daily.

Probate Court

JOSIAH KIRBY WITHOUT FUNDS AND IN PEN

Is Ordered To Pay $2,923,053
Judgment — Four Defendants
Win Action Brought 3 Years
Ago Against Head of Defunct
Discount Co.

Cleveland, June 29.—Josiah Kirby, former president of the defunct Cleveland Discount Co. and now serving sentence in Atlanta penitentiary for using the mails in a scheme to defraud in connection with the sale of stock in the concern, today was ordered to pay four stockholders of the concern $2,923,053.12.

The judgment was rendered against the former financier in a civil action brought three years ago in common pleas court in which it was alleged the company went defunct through Kirby's mismanagement and that he, therefore, was financially responsible to stockholders of the concern. The court, in its opinion, concurred in the claim of stockholders.

The suit as originally brought asked $7,951,500.12 against Kirby and 16 other defendants, all directors and former officers of the company. Ten of the defendants made a settlement outside of court for a sum said to exceed $3,000,000.

Four other defendants, J. Edmund Flynn, Charles J. Ford, W. H. Hoppie and Belle D. Andrews, executrix of the estate of Allen A. Andrews, were held by the court not liable. Andrews has died since the suit was instituted.

Edward O. Peck and W. C. Malin were held liable for $4,000. Kirby, the decision held, was liable for $1,504,053.12 lost by the company in a deal with a steel company at Sharon, Pa. He also was held liable for $500,000 loss from mismanagement and loss through payment of dividends, totalling near $3,000,000, in 1922, which the decision held were not earned.

The suit is the last of a series of criminal and civil actions against Kirby resulting in the collapse of the discount company in which thousands of Ohio people purchased stock in its heyday.

Kirby was tried in common criminal charges but never convicted, the juries disagreeing. He then was tried in federal court on a charge of using the mails in sending out literature to prospective purchasers of stock misrepresenting the financial status of the concern. On this charge he was convicted.

During this trial a federal investigation of tampering with jurors got under way, resulting in a number of Kirby's aids being sentenced to Atlanta.

Court officials said that the plaintiffs in the suit decided today will receive little compensation as Kirby now is said to be without funds, his entire estate of many millions having been dissipated.

When the company collapsed Kirby turned his entire fortune over to receivers in an effort to liquidate some of the concern's losses.

RETURN TRIP IS CALLED OFF

Washington, June 29.—(U.P.)—The army is content to rest on its Hawaiian laurels, and will not permit a return flight of the "Bird of Paradise."

Major General Mason Patrick, chief of the army corps, was advised today, in answer to his request for permission of a return flight, that this would not be sanctioned.

Instead Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger will return directly on a steamer, leaving their famous plane in the islands for military duty.

They probably will receive the distinguished flying cross.

Grover Wheelan Holding His

After a good night's rest in the city hospital, Grover Wheelan, 40, New Straitsville, shot by Sergeant Allen Losh, Monday night in an unsuccessful attempt to escape arrest, was reported as holding his own today by Dr. M. D. Scholl, his attending physician.

A hemorrhage in the lungs, caused by a .41 calibre bullet of pleas courts several times on the police officer, has been stopped, it was said. Though resting fairly easy, Wheelan's condition is still serious, due to weakness which makes him especially susceptible to pneumonia.

Meanwhile police are endeavoring to check up on the wounded man's past activities, in an effort to ascertain the reason, if any, for his break from the officer and refusal to halt after three commands and the shooting of one cartridge into the ground.—Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

That Very Queer Passenger

By CLARISSA MACKIE

(Copyright.)

MISS ANN RICHLAND locked the back door of her small house, and went out to the tumble-down old barn which had become a shelter for the ancient automobile that she vainly gloriously called "the car." She had dusted and washed it that very morning. There was a minute or two of hesitation on the part of the car, after Ann had stepped on the "gas," and then an exciting thrill shuddered through the vehicle, and it rolled importantly through the open door and down the incline to the grassy yard.

"Now gittap!" commanded Ann Richland imperiously, as they reached the road, and soon they were spinning madly along toward the cross road that led straight to the railroad station. Since she had acquired the car Ann had made it her business to meet every important train that stopped at Little River. This morning was a cool, delicious spring one. The big "stage" that always met the trains was already there when Ann reached the station. Dan Mills was the appointed carrier of mailbags to and from the trains, and he grinned at Ann and touched his cap.

"How's she goin'?" he wanted to know.

"Like a bird!" laughed Ann happily.

"Humph," grunted old Benjamin Brown, who had come to the station to meet his new hired man. "Like a crow bird—that old rattletap humps along. Here comes the train. I wonder what kind of a poor tramp they're sending me this time?"

Ann's car was filled soon after the train stopped and she turned to run to the village. But Benjamin Brown, who had just taken on a single passenger, had cut in ahead of Ann's car. She waited until he had passed, telling herself that the passenger did not look like a regular farm hand. After she had left her passenger in the village she went slowly homeward. Just as she was turning into her gate Dan Mills came jogging along, his empty stage stretching behind him.

"Wait a minute, Ann," he sang out. Dan emerged from the stage and came over to talk to her. "Say, Ann," he said in a low tone, "did you see the queer party that went home with Ben Brown?"

"I thought that he was too well dressed for a farm hand," admitted Ann. "You act queer, Dan—suspicious, aren't you?"

For answer he thrust a hand into an inside coat pocket and brought out a paper—it contained pictures and descriptions of several wanted criminals, and issued warnings against them.

"Why?" Ann Richland pointed toward a familiar picture. "Benjamin Brown's farm hand?"

"That's what I want to know! You see the bank has a registered bag coming along on the evening train—they're keeping the bank open after hours to receive it and lock it up in the vaults—and I'm wondering about that queer character that went to Ben Brown's."

Ann locked her car in the old barn and waited over to the house. She was feeling very lonesome, and rather upset about what Dan Mills had told her, for Brown's hand adjoined Ann's on the south! She went around to the south porch now, and started back aghast at the sight of the strange "farm hand."

"The same Ann Richland," he said in a vibrant voice that thrilled Ann.

"Why—" stammered Ann. "I do not remember you—you have made a mistake!" And all the time she was wishing that Dan would come along so that she might appeal to him for help. Then a sudden shocked expression came to her charming face. "It must be Everett Lewis," she said softly.

"Of course it is—I know I look years older than you; but there was the war, and it rather battered me up; since then I've been back at my old job—teaching school—until I was bitten with a longing to come back to Little River and see the old place. Then I saw an advertisement of old Ben Brown's place open for summer boarders, so I telegraphed that I would be here on the two-thirty train today. Old Ben was there, hustled me into his wagon and ran me out to his place. First thing he said—something about my being too dressed up for a hired man—brought forth an explanation, and he was so mad because he had probably mistook the real farm hand at the station that he put me off his place—I'm on the way to the village hotel. I stopped here, Ann, for the sake of old times—you know what I mean?"

Ann blushed beautifully and nodded and offered to drive him to the village hotel. In five minutes the old car had become a wonderful chariot in which two persons rode once more through the scenes of happy youth and relived an old love story. Leaving Everett at the village hotel, Ann drove happily back home again.

That all happened years ago—and the Little River bank has never yet been robbed; while Ann Richland has married Everett Lewis, and they live a very happy, almost idyllic life in the old house. Everett teaches in the village school and Ann still drives the old car to the station every day for passengers.

CIRCLEVILLE'S WATER SUPPLY NOW PROTECTED

Manager Harry Denman of the People's Ohio Utility Corporation Claims.

Manager Harry Denman of The Peoples' Utilities Ohio Corporation, is doing everything in his power to safeguard the health of Circleville people through a possible contamination of its water supply at the pumping station of the Corporation on the west bank of Darby creek.

Big improvements have already been made under the direction of Manager Denman and more are to follow and when completed that it will be the garden-spot of Pickaway County.

The receiving well at the pumping station, into which the filtered water flows from the creek has had a new concrete jacket placed around and over it, the jacket has been covered with asphalt paint to further insure the well from being polluted from the outside, the water is then pumped directly into the stand-pipe which maintains an excellent pressure all over the system in this city.

The old vitrified soil-pipes leading from the toilets of the pumping station and engineer's residence have been replaced with iron soil-pipe which further prevents the possibility of pollution from that source.

New concrete pavements have replaced the wooden pavements on the grounds and the floor, sidewalks and ceilings of the pumping station have been cleansed and repainted.

The Corporation ordered the engineer to remove all hogs and chickens from the premises and it will not be long with plenty of grass and flowers before the pumping station grounds will be an ideal place for picnic parties.

Manager Denman is proving an excellent official as he has learned many things since he has been with the Supply Company through several administrations, that have been beneficial to him and he has an excellent force to assist him in looking after the interests of the Peoples' Utilities Ohio Corporation, which insures Circleville consumers a pure and wholesome water supply even in flood-stages of the Scioto river and tributary, Darby creek.

Poland is spoken of as a "buffer state" for the same reason that Switzerland is—that is, because of its geographical location. A buffer state is one which intervenes geographically between larger states and lessens the danger of rupture from immediate contact of their unfriendly elements.

Itching for Trouble

Defect in Character

A young man had applied for a certain position and his possible employer was getting some sidelights on the applicant's character. "Why, he's all right," said those who knew him best. "He's young and sometimes foolish, but he means all right."

"That is not satisfactory," said the employer. "What's the doubt about him?"

"Well," was the hesitating reply, "he rather has a habit of defying authority, just for the sake of defying it. He doesn't care particularly about breaking the rules or the laws, but he seems to have a complex which makes him antagonistic toward anyone over him. He will probably do his work well, but he will always be itching for an opportunity to sass you a bit."

"Guess that's enough," said the employer, and he looked elsewhere for an employee.—Springfield Union.

Rotarians recently visited the governor to protect the veto of Mrs. Hadley's salary and were told by the governor that it was a "mistake" and that efforts will be made to "find" money by which to continue the work.

Filling the position of secretary to the director of education, a new job, will be left to John L. Clifton, who will become director of education July 15. The secretary will receive $1,800.

Amount of money expended for salaries under the new arrangement will be exactly the same as before.

Deputy Auditor Harry D. Silver, representing State Auditor Tracy on the board of control Thursday sought approval of the proposed reorganization. Merlin Breneman, superintendent of budget, opposed the action, declaring it was the wish of Governor Donahey to await the approval of the new superintendent of education. Mr. Silver insisted that there be immediate action, which course was followed.

Nelsonville—White clover honey was never more plentiful than this spring, farmers said here today. This honey is said to be the choicest of all and comes after seasons of heavy rainfall and good pastures.

Cleveland—New arrests in the Ida Glazer murder mystery were hinted at today by Detective Captain Emmett Potts following acquittal of Mrs. Helen Schaffer Glazer, accused of slaying the young bride of her former husband. LEN BRIGNER SUICIDES AT DARBYVILLE

Loses His Best Girl, and Decides Life Isn't Worth Living--Used Shotgun.

Leonard Brigner, aged 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Brigner, shot and killed himself Thursday at noon at the home of his parents in Darbyville.

The young man used a double barreled shotgun, but only one shell was exploded, the load passing thru his neck, killing him instantly. The young man's body was found by his mother, who was in the yard feeding chickens when she heard the report of the gun, but paid no attention to it, as she thought it was a backfiring report from one of his trucks.

The cause of taking his life will never be known, but it is supposed that it was despondency over the fact of the marriage of the girl with whom he had been keeping company for the past two years. She lived in New Lexington and he had returned from that town Thursday morning and seemed to be in the best of spirits. On his bed lay open a marriage announcement of the girl and this is supposed to have led to the sudden resolve to take his life.

In the absence of the coroner, Dr. F. E. Ginder was delegated to act for that official.

The funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock Eastern time at the Methodist church. Interment will be made at Darbyville.

MRS. SUSAN SPANGLER DEAD.

The death of Mrs. John Spangler 86, occurred at her home 306 Washington avenue, Lancaster, Tuesday at 4:30 p. m. as a result of infirmities.

The funeral was held at one o'clock Thursday from the home, with Rev. E. B. White, U. B. church, officiating. Burial was made at Maple cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. John Spangler celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last January. They have spent their entire life in Fairfield county and are widely known. Mr. Spangler is a Civil war veteran. — Lancaster Eagle.

BYRD'S PARTY SAFELY LANDS FRENCH CHANNEL

Men Reach Shore on Rubber Raft From Ver-Sur-Mer-- Plane Badly Damaged.

The transatlantic flight of Commander Byrd, after hard luck and tremendous difficulty, ended just after dawn Friday in the sea 200 yards from the beach of the little seaside resort of Ver-Sur-Mer, 175 miles west of Paris.

The aviators came ashore on the collapsible rubber raft carried on the plane, towed by a boat, and immediately went to sleep in a little cottage to which they were taken. The mono plane America, was badly damaged—how badly awaited determination till the wornout fliers should have a good sleep.

From advices reaching Paris, it appears the plane came down at 5:45 o'clock, which means they were in the air 43 hours, 21 minutes from the time they left Roosevelt field, New York, with Paris as the goal.

Presumably the fliers faced death in their flight that lasted for almost two days. For hours over the Atlantic they were unable to see the ocean or determine with any accuracy, except with the aid of the radio, just where they were. On three occasions even the tips of the wings were obscured from the anxious man in the pilot's seat.

TWO PEN PRISONERS EXPRESS

WISH TO DIE

One Would Go To Chair; Other Hopes Operation Will Kill Him.

Death is welcomed by two prisoners in Ohio penitentiary, both of them serving 10 to 25 years, one for burglary and larceny, the other for robbery.

Frank Stencel, 35, Williams County, has requested the warden to let him die in the electric chair in the place of one of the condemned men in the annex.

"My life is not sweet any more. I am run down in health, weak, suffering nervously and worrying. I want to die in the chair and be over with," Stencel wrote in part. Warden Thomas is not in a position to grant his request.

Roy Copeland, 24, Stark County, who will undergo an operation for goiter today, had threatened to go on a hunger strike, but decided to wait until after the operation through which he said "he hoped he never would come."

Mental anguish caused relatives by his imprisonment and the fact that his wife has not written to him for some time are the causes of his melancholy.—O. S. Journal.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Miss Helen Schiear was the delightful hostess at a beautifully appointed six o'clock dinner-bridge last evening at her home in North Scioto street. The patriotic colors of red, white and blue were used throughout the house and also were carried out in the table decorations and refreshments. Beautiful red, white and blue pom-poms centered the five tables where the dinner was served and miniature flags were also placed on the tables. Red roses, white daisies and blue corn flowers added to the decorations. The place cards were patriotic emblems and the nut cups were also of the same colors.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. W. C. Watson, of New Lexington and Miss Ruth Holman, of Washington, D. C. At the conclusion of the game prizes were awarded Misses Helen Hitler and Lucille Rooney.

When Mrs. T. C. Millar and Mrs. George P. Foresman entertained with a luncheon-bridge at noon yesterday and again in the evening with a dinner-bridge their home in South Court street was profusely decorated in the season's most beautiful flowers. Tree Preserved in Ice

A Canadian government exploration party recently came across a spruce tree which had been preserved in the ice of the great North American glacier in Alaska. The glacier had receded and left the tree exposed after an imprisonment estimated at hundreds of thousands of years. The spruce was apparently one hundred twenty-four years old when the glacier enveloped it.

Sparrow Sweeps Fields

One of the most efficient sweepers of the fields is the vesper sparrow, which we may recognize by the white outer tail feathers, says Nature Magazine. COAL STRIKE
LITTLE FELT

Other Industries Keep Ohio Mining Towns Busy.

New Lexington, June 29.—(UP.)—A stranger going through the Corning, Glouster, New Lexington, Nelsonville and Hobson railroad yards would never guess a coal strike existed. The yards are blocked daily with long trains of West Virginia coal, continually pouring through Ohio. Despite the coal strike, other business is good.

At New Lexington, sand mines, tile plants and building is taking care of every idle man.

At Crooksville, the potteries are working full force and there are very few idle men.

At Corning many men are working on the railroads and at Shawnee brick plants are working, giving employment to many miners. Brick plants and oil workers at Somersett, Nelsonville, Murray City and New Straitsville have possibly 1,000 unemployed miners.

Blue and White Checks Worn by "Movie" Actress

Greens Take Lead Among Colors for the Season

The crystal-trimmed white frock, which for the last few weeks has practically dominated the evening mode, has to a certain extent yielded the palm of popularity to those in the pale, faint shades of flesh and pink, or green in light almond and chartreuse tones.

This tendency toward shades of green in preference to the pink tones has been growing for some time, and from the Riviera resorts comes word that the more delicate shades of green are rapidly supplanting other colors for evening wear.

Nile and absinthe, as well as the shades already mentioned, are given a most prominent place in the collections of new frocks designed for resort wear, and the use of these colors is not confined to evening. One finds them chosen for the charming little semi-sports frocks and for the sheer lovely chiffons and georgettes that are worn for tea and dancing.

Lovers' Knot Brooch Now Used to Fasten Drapery

A curious effect of the new jewelry fashion is the popularity of the lovers' knot brooch. This resembles the brooch worn in past days to safeguard a small plain gold watch worn by ladies on the left shoulder. Nowadays, however, the lovers' knot brooch is used to fasten drapery on a gown, or as the motif relieving an otherwise plain hat.

Earrings are still very much in evidence and may be of almost any design. Those that rely for their effect on the color contrast of precious stones are probably the most popular, but others in the form of pendants are equally fashionable. Mexican or "fire" opals appear in this connection to be gaining in popularity.

Yellow Velvet Gown

Yellow is coming into favor by way of velvet for evening wear. Blondes favor the sunny shade particularly. One of the pretty models in yellow is viewable at the house of Drecolli in Paris. It is made of pale tinted velvet—so delicate it is almost ivory. A girdle of rich gold braid studded with bronze ornaments holds the fullness of the skirt in front. The back of the model shows a bodice of black lace.

Vogue of Plaits

The use of plaits on frocks that are distinctly sport in character has much to recommend it. In the first place plaiting is simple enough to be in keeping with the general effect of simplicity, and in the second it permits of the fullness necessary for freedom of motion without disturbing the slender lines of the silhouette.

Up-to-Minute Trimmings

The trimmings on day frocks are particularly delicate and attractive. They are made with tucked bands, stitching, tiny plaits, gaufre or plisse bands or borders of laced narrow bands in the same fabric as the frock or in the one used for the trimming. Many decorations in chenille and wool and wool and silk combined.

Hosiery Colors

The smartest colors in hosiery are those that are on the beige tones, with no suggestion of pink in their coloring. Gun-metal, with black heels, and other duo-tone effects are very popular and equally smart.

Youthful Fashions

A new version of the peasant frock for the younger set is of a heavy rough silk with gay embroidered motifs on the full sleeves gathered into a cuff.

Would Bar Children
From Seeing "Movies"

Of stimulants to the emotions motion pictures are one of the most violent known to the modern world, according to the French psychiatrist, Doctor Toulouse. In the course of
long researches he has studied the reaction on the breathing and on the blood circulation of healthy adults
during the projection of various sorts
of films. From his findings Doctor
Toulouse draws attention to the dangers presented to the health, particularly of children, by films which are too exciting. A report issued by a Japanese physical culture and health committee is much commented on here, as it sets forth even more formidable conclusions. Children up to twelve years, says the report, are extremely fatigued after only a few minutes of watching a film. The fatigue
is not so marked in comedies as in big dramatic films and reaches its maximum when there is musical accompaniment. Hence it is advised that no children under thirteen should be allowed to attend the movies.

NEGRO SOLD
A "VOODOO"
THRU MAILS

Had a Good Trade in Charms,
But Failed to Keep His Uncle Sam Away.

"Doctor" Samuel Kojoe Pearce, Negro, who postoffice inspectors said had victimized hundreds of negroes in many states by selling them "voodoo" charms by mail, was indicted by the federal grand jury at St. Louis, Missouri, Thursday on a charge of having used the mails to defraud.

Posing as the West African Remedies company, the Pearce Health institute, the Oriental Institute of science and the African-American institute of science, "Doctor" Pearce did a thriving business from his home in St. Louis. His stock in trade was itemized in the indictment as consisting of:

"Tie-'em Down Powder," guaranteed to keep your husband at home, except in aggravated cases," price $25 for 25 powders.

Bring-Back Powder, "to be used in serious cases where husband fails to respond to Tie-'em Down powder," price $50 for 25 powders.

Lucky Terrarie, "will keep evil spirits from home."

Black Cat's Wishbone, "warranted to bring luck in business or love, horse racing or crap games."

King Solomon's Wisdom Stone,
"very valuable and charged with invisible life."

Inspectors said Pearce admitted he collected from $8 to $500 from each customer. He said he was a native of Nigeria, West Africa, and came to the United States in 1920 from Hamburg, Germany. He first "practiced" in New York and then in Detroit and came to St. Louis last year.

Searchlight Crew Makes Perfect Air Test Score

Washington.—A perfect score has been credited to the searchlight and sound locator crew of battery A of the Sixty-third Coast artillery at Fort Winfield Scott, Calif., which conducted
recent night tests of its anti-aircraft
detection equipment. An airplane which made eight simulated bombing
raids on a two and a half-mile square
area defended by the battery was detected and illuminated by the searchlights on each occasion. The plane
crossed the area at varied intervals
at an average altitude of 8,000 feet.

Use Fish as Illuminant

The candle fish is still being used by the Indians in some parts of British Columbia for illuminating purposes. After catching the candle fish,
the Indians place them in a dry, sheltered place and wait till they have shrunk and all the water has evaporated from them. They then set the head or tail of the fish alight and use
the carcass as they would a torch.
There is so much oil in the carcass
that it produces a bright, steady flame
which burns slowly.

SIR KNIGHTS PICNICKED IN ZWICKER PARK

Games, Contests and Big
Eats on Grounds --Dancing
in the C. A. C. Gym.

Thursday afternoon the Knights
Templar of Franklin, Ross, Hocking,
Fairfield and Pickaway counties all
joined together in an old-fashioned
picnic in the beautiful Zwicker grove
on the Ringgold pike.

The outing was in charge of District Commander John P. Kuhns and Chief of Staff W. D. Cherry, of Columbus, and Grand Standard Bearer, Robert H. Pausch, of Columbus, was
the representative of Grand Commander W. Edwin Palmer of Akron.

The afternoon was spent in games
and this feature was in charge of Sir Knight Robert G. Colville. The
amusements consisted of horseshoe
pitching, races of all kinds and a base ball game between picked men from the Columbus and Circleville commanderies. The score was a lopsided
one, 13 to 5, in favor of Columbus.

Sir Knight B. R. Bales was the star player, knocking out a home run and
was not doing his best.

A parade headed by the band of
Mt. Vernon commandery, No. 1, of Columbus, marched south on Court
street to Franklin, west on Franklin
to Scioto, north on Scioto to Main,
east on Main to Court and north to picnic grounds. More than a hundred Knights were in line and as they passed the court house, Sir Knight Harvey J. Sweyer played, "Onward,
Christian Soldiers" on the chimes.

At the intersection of Main and
Court streets Captain General Harry
Hartman staged an exhibition drill
which elicited the praise and admiration of all who were so fortunate as
to witness it.

On the return to the grounds a splendid picnic dinner was served on long tables and free coffee and ice cream were furnished. Thruout the afternoon free lemonade and ice cream were dispensed.

After the dinner a large number of the Templars, their families and friends adjourned to the C. A. C.
gymnasium where dancing was enjoyed until eleven o'clock.

Altogether it was a most enjoyable
day and showed that these annual meetings are of real value in giving
to the members of the order and their families an opportunity to know their neighbors better and proved that association and fellowship go a long way toward making life worth while.

The success of this venture is an
earnest that the picnic of Columbus,
Logan, Chillicothe, Lancaster and Circleville commanderies, whenever and wherever held will be a great success.

King Likens Docked Tail
Horse to Bobbed Hair

Paris.—According to a recent writer in the "Carnet de la Semaine," King George V, after a notable race, strolled around to the paddock to get a close look at the horses. Among them was a fine thoroughbred with his tail cropped close. The king looked at him in silence for a few moments, while the attendants awaited some word of praise such as he had bestowed upon other horses. At length the president of the club ventured to ask:

"May I trust that your majesty is pleased?"

"No," replied the king, meditatively; "no; I do not like at all such trimming of a horse's tail. I think it is very ugly."

Then, after a moment, and with a smile, he added:

"It reminds me of a woman with bobbed hair!"

PAST MASTERS
EXEMPLIFIED
THIRD DEGREE

Wednesday evening, June 29, one of the best meetings in the history of Pickaway lodge of Masons was held and the Master Mason degree was conferred on one candidate.

The session was out of the ordinary because of the fact that the work was exemplified by past masters of Pickaway, Logan Elm and Heber lodges.

A feature of the meeting was that one of the principal parts of the ceremony was taken by the father of the candidate and it was so splendidly done that it made a profound impression, not only on the candidate, but on all who were present.

At the conclusion of the work, refreshments of sandwiches, ice cream cake and coffee were served in the banquet rooms.

GOOD HOME LOST

A tramp asked a farmer's wife one day for a piece of bread. As she gave him a piece of pie she said:

"Poor fellow, you look as if you'd seen better days."

"Yes, so I have, ma'am," said the tramp. He shoveled about a cubic foot of pie into his mouth with his knife and added: "Once I dwelt in marble halls."

"And how," said the farmer's wife, "did you come to lose such a nice home?"

"Term expired," said the tramp.

MACCABEES
PILGRIMAGE
TO DETROIT

Celebration From July 21 to 23—Rapid Growth—5,000 Lodges in United States.

Five thousand Maccabees from all over the society's international jurisdiction will gather in Detroit July 23, for the dedication of the new $2,500-Maccabee temple and international headquarters. Delegations will make the pilgrimage to Detroit from every state and province of Canada in special cars and automobile caravans.

The dedication celebration will take up three days, July 21 to 23 and will be witnessed by many national and state officials who are members of the order and officials of other fraternal associations. Governor Fred W. Green, of Michigan, and Supreme Commander A. W. Frye will deliver the principal speeches and other speakers will be Mayor John W. Smith, of Detroit, and John C. Snyder, president of the National Fraternal congress. Maccabee drill teams from many cities will take part in exhibition drills during the three days' celebration, and a mammoth automobile parade five miles long will tour the city. The ceremonies will be broadcasted over station WGHP.

The Maccabees was organized in London, Ontario, in 1878. It spread to the United States and was reorganized with headquarters at Port Huron, Michigan in 1883, and headquarters were moved to Detroit in 1908. Ground was broken for the temple December 29, 1925. It is said to be the most beautiful office building in Detroit and the finest home office owned by any fraternal benefit society in the world.

The year, 1926, was the most successful in the order's history, according to the report which will be made by Supreme Commander Frye, when the membership was increased to a quarter of a million and assets to $34,000,000. The Maccabees is the second oldest fraternal benefit association in America and is financially the strongest. Its membership includes men, women and the children of members and it has 5000 lodges thruout the country.

Birds Nest in April

In April, bluebirds, robins, chickadees, nuthatches, and phoebes begin housebuilding, says Nature Magazine. A few well-placed houses are certain to have tenants before the month is very old, and by setting them low along fences or on the laundry line poles, one may watch the birds closely.

Early Suspension Bridge

The first suspension bridge built in America was a wooden structure erected over the Mohawk river at Schenectady, N. Y., between 1805 and 1808 by Theodore Burr, brother of Aaron Burr. It was torn down in 1873.

AMUSEMENTS

Director Frank Lloyd has made another remarkable picture for Paramount with the inspired Esther Ralston, Gary Cooper, Einar Hanson and Norman Trevor.

"Children of Divorce," now playing at the Met theater, tears a new slash in the veil covering the evils of modern divorce and pictures in bold colors life in the youthful ranks of the wealthy social class.

The cast headed by Clara Bow and Esther Ralston, both of whom are starred, and Einar Hanson and handsome young Gary Cooper, give wonderfully fine consistent performances. Too much cannot be said in praise of Miss Bow as the girl who forces marriage on the man of her choice (Cooper) in spite of his love for Esther Ralston. Miss Ralston, in Esther Ralston, in turn, as lovely, dignified Jean Waddington, suffers her disappointment contagiously as she found ready sympathy flowing from the audience that saw the picture on the opening night here.

Miss Bow, Miss Ralston and Mr. Cooper in their big scene where Jean learns that Kitty and Ted have been married during a night of revelry, rise to the historic heights as actresses and actor. Theirs were parts that might well have been given more experienced players, but their youth stood them in good stead and even added to the appeal of the characterizations.

Taken all in all, "Children of Divorce" couldn't possibly have been better than a good picture. Owen Johnson wrote the story. Remember his "Stover at Yale" and "The Enemy Sex?" Frank Lloyd translated it to the screen. The four leading players and a fine supporting cast carry it thru and when one has Norman Trevor, Hedda Hopper, Edward Martindel and Julia Swayne Gordon in support, you have nothing less than the best that's to be obtained!

Civil War in China
Boosts Chop Suey

London.—The upheaval in China has brought the Chinese "chop suey joints" into great favor with London's exclusive society set. An after-theater tour of Piccadilly Circus or the Strand at night reveals that the "best people" who formerly sought only the most expensive and most exclusive hotels to enjoy a quiet meal away from "the rabble" are now patronizing Chinese restaurants. It seems that society's latest fancy is to absorb a little Far Eastern atmosphere and to see Chinese at close range.

FARMER CLAIMS
ROYAL DESCENT

... Making $10 a Week, Traces Blood Direct to
Saxon Kings.

Berd n. England.—King Harold's direct family descendant, Thomas W. Goodwin, a farm laborer near here, has no regrets as to the outcome of the battle of Hastings, which crushed the Saxon rule and deprived him of the right to the British crown.

"A castle means nothing to me," went on the farmer whose ancestry goes back in an unbroken line to Earl Goodwin, the father of King Harold. "and I am perfectly satisfied with my lot."

Wife Contented Also.

Mrs. Goodwin, too, is contented in her thatched roof cottage—her home since babyhood—40 miles from London. There are three children—Cyril, aged eight, is known throughout the neighborhood as "Little King Harold," "Princess" Irene is fourteen and her sister, Catherine, is four.

The Goodwins have relatives in the United States, but they lost trace of them years ago.

Goodwin first heard of the startling family news this year from the parish vicar Rev. Kynaston Hudson, who for years has been looking up the genealogy of many of his parishioners. His lineage is vouched for by England's Doomsday book.

"I thought at first that I might gain a thousand pounds one way or another out of this 'discovery' and then I'd buy some land," said Goodwin, "but it appears now that I will never get a farthing, but still I have no complaint to make."

Earns $10 a Week.

Goodwin, who is forty-two, earns about $10 a week. His house rent is free. He has never owned an acre of land.

After the famous battle, fought chiefly with spears and battle axes, when Harold and all of his troops were slain, King Harold's family lost everything and few of the Goodwins since have been land owners.

"I have heard that, since my ancestry has been linked up with the last of the Saxon kings, some of my neighbors remarked that I was a high stepper," Goodwin chuckled to the interviewer who followed him about a 14-acre field while he drove a team hauling a barley sower, "but the fact is I was always what they call a high stepper—I acquired that habit stepping over furrows in the field."

"I had a look at Buckingham palace once, but I prefer the old house on the hill, up there."

Airplane Halts Stampede
of Wild Reindeer Herd

Nome, Alaska.—How an airplane swooped down and turned the tide when a herd of 4,000 reindeer stampeded was told here by Eskimo herders. Up the Kuskokwim river near Bethel natives driving their herds toward new pastures faced total losses when the animals from no apparent cause sniffed the air and made off east.

Calves and yearlings were crushed by the rushing animals. Ten to fifteen miles beyond wild caribou would soon be passing on spring migrations. The native herders knew if the two types of animals merged the reindeer would be lost.

Out of the southern sky suddenly appeared an airplane bound toward Nome. The aviator sized up the situation and acted quickly. With a long swoop eastward he soared just above the milling animals. The leaders veered immediately and soon had the herds going in the direction of home corrals. The herders, more frightened than the reindeer, kept running in the opposite direction.

Selects Bark Diet

to Live to Be 350

Tokyo.—An amazing secret of longevity is claimed to have been discovered by a Korean, regarded as a saint, named Skajkinan—amazing in its simplicity as well as in its anticipated results. For it consists in nothing but a diet of water and small cakes made of pine bark.

Upon such food Skajkinan is said to have subsisted for many years. He is now sixty years old and "still going strong," and expresses the utmost confidence in living for 250 years longer, thus rounding out three centuries and a half.

Skajkinan is a hermit who lives on Korea's holy mountain, Kongosan, and who has now come to Tokyo to tell of his method of longevity to the members of the Japanese Peer club. He says he found the secret inscribed in ancient books, which record that in this manner men have prolonged their lives to 500 years. He sleeps only two hours a day, massages himself and performs other hygienic exercises according to the holy teachings of the Buddhists, and his food consists of a few of the pine bark cakes and one or two glasses of water daily.

Watch Your Woolens!

With the summer season, the moth miller is abroad hunting a good place to lay her eggs. She prefers woolens as a good place to deposit her eggs, for there will be good feeding for her young.

Keep the cover on your upholstered furniture, brushed at least once each week, remove all cushions, and use your electric cleaner now and then. DO NOT COVER YOUR FURNITURE WITH COVERS. The young moth will crawl thru the covering and destroy your coverings before you are aware of their presence.

Place your woolen clothing and blankets in a moth-proof chest and cease to worry. We have just received a large shipment of "Treasure Chests" lined inside with red cedar, with walnut on the outside. They are beautifully finished and will add greatly to the beauty of the room, as well as serve as a protection to your clothing.

Haven't you often wished that you had a folding chair to take with you on picnics and camping tours? We have some that are very fine for that purpose. Private Court

JOSIAH KIRBY WITHOUT FUNDS AND IN PEN

Is Ordered To Pay $2,923,053
Judgment — Four Defendants
Win Action Brought 3 Years
Ago Against Head of Defunct
Discount Co.

Cleveland, June 29.—Josiah Kirby, former president of the defunct Cleveland Discount Co. and now serving sentence in Atlanta penitentiary for using the mails in a scheme to defraud in connection with the sale of stock in the concern, today was ordered to pay four stockholders of the concern $2,923,053.12.

The judgment was rendered against the former financier in a civil action brought three years ago in common pleas court in which it was alleged the company went defunct through Kirby's mismanagement and that he, therefore, was financially responsible to stockholders of the concern. The court, in its opinion, concurred in the claim of stockholders.

The suit as originally brought asked $7,951,500.12 against Kirby and 16 other defendants, all directors and former officers of the company. Ten of the defendants made a settlement outside of court for a sum said to exceed $3,000,000.

Four other defendants, J. Edmund Flynn, Charles J. Ford, W. H. Hopple and Belle D. Andrews, executrix of the estate of Allen A. Andrews, were held by the court not liable. Andrews has died since the suit was instituted.

Edward O. Peck and W. C. Malin were held liable for $4,000. Kirby, the decision held, was liable for $1,504,053.12 lost by the company in a deal with a steel company at Sharon, Pa. He also was held liable for $500,000 loss from mismanagement and loss through payment of dividends, totalling near $3,000,000, in 1922, which the decision held were not earned.

The suit is the last of a series of criminal and civil actions against Kirby resulting in the collapse of the discount company in which thousands of Ohio people purchased stock in its heyday.

Kirby was tried in common criminal charges but never convicted, the juries disagreeing. He then was tried in federal court on a charge of using the mails in sending out literature to prospective purchasers of stock misrepresenting the financial status of the concern. On this charge he was convicted.

During this trial a federal investigation of tampering with jurors got under way, resulting in a number of Kirby's aids being sentenced to Atlanta.

Court officials said that the plaintiffs in the suit decided today will receive little compensation as Kirby now is said to be without funds, his entire estate of many millions having been dissipated.

When the company collapsed Kirby turned his entire fortune over to receivers in an effort to liquidate some of the concern's losses.

RETURN TRIP IS CALLED OFF

Washington, June 29.—(UP.)—The army is content to rest on its Hawaiian laurels, and will not permit a return flight of the "Bird of Paradise."

Major General Mason Patrick, chief of the army corps, was advised today, in answer to his request for permission of a return flight, that this would not be sanctioned.

Instead, Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger will return directly on a steamer, leaving their famous plane in the islands for military duty.

They probably will receive the distinguished flying cross.

POLICEMAN'S VICTIM Grover Wheelan Holding His Own—Hemorrhage Stopped.

After a good night's rest in the city hospital, Grover Wheelan, 40, New Straitsville, shot by Sergeant Allen Losh, Monday night in an unsuccessful attempt to escape arrest, was reported as holding his own today by Dr. M. D. Scholl, his attending physician.

A hemorrhage in the lungs, caused by a .41 calibre bullet of pleas courts several times on the police officer, has been stopped, it was said. Though resting fairly easy, Wheelan's condition is still serious, due to weakness which makes his especially susceptible to pneumonia.

Meanwhile police are endeavoring to check up on the wounded man's past activities, in an effort to ascertain the reason, if any, for his break from the officer and refusal to halt after three commands and the shooting of one cartridge into the ground.—Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

That Very Queer Passenger

By CLARISSA MACKIE

(Copyright.)

MISS ANN RICHLAND locked the back door of her small house, and went out to the tumble-down old barn which had become a shelter for the ancient automobile that she vainly gloriously called "the car." She had dusted and washed it that very morning. There was a minute or two of hesitation on the part of the car, after Ann had stepped on the "gas," and then an exciting thrill shuddered through the vehicle, and it rolled importantly through the open door and down the incline to the grassy yard.

"Now gittap!" commanded Ann Richland imperiously, as they reached the road, and soon they were spinning madly along toward the cross road that led straight to the railroad station. Since she had acquired the car Ann had made it her business to meet every important train that stopped at Little River. This morning was a cool, delicious spring one. The big "stage" that always met the trains was already there when Ann reached the station. Dan Mills was the appointed carrier of mailbags to and from the trains, and he grinned at Ann and touched his cap.

"How's she goin'?" he wanted to know.

"Take a bird!" laughed Ann happily.

"Humph," grunted old Benjamin Brown, who had come to the station to meet his new hired man. "Like a crow bird—that old rattletap humps along. Here comes the train. I wonder what kind of a poor tramp they're sending me this time?"

Ann's car was filled soon after the train stopped and she turned to run to the village. But Benjamin Brown, who had just taken on a single passenger, had cut in ahead of Ann's car. She waited until he had passed, telling herself that the passenger did not look like a regular farm hand. After she had left her passenger in the village she went slowly homeward. Just as she was turning into her gate Dan Mills came jogging along, his empty stage stretching behind him.

"Wait a minute, Ann," he sang out. Dan emerged from the stage and came over to talk to her. "Say, Ann," he said in a low tone, "did you see the queer party that went home with Ben Brown?"

"I thought that he was too well dressed for a farm hand," admitted Ann. "You act queer, Dan—suspicious, aren't you?"

For answer he thrust a hand into an inside coat pocket and brought out a paper—it contained pictures and descriptions of several wanted criminals, and issued warnings against them.

"Why?" Ann Richland pointed toward a familiar picture. "Benjamin Brown's farm hand?"

"That's what I want to know! You see the bank has a registered bag coming along on the evening train—they're keeping the bank open after hours to receive it and lock it up in the vaults—and I'm wondering about that queer character that went to Ben Brown's."

Ann locked her car in the old barn and walked over to the house. She was feeling very lonesome, and rather upset about what Dan Mills had told her, for Brown's land adjoined Ann's on the south. She went around to the south porch now, and started back again at the sight of the strange "farm hand."

"The same Ann Richland," he said in a vibrant voice that thrilled Ann.

"Why—" stammered Ann. "I do not remember you—you have made a mistake!" And all the time she was wishing that Dan would come along so that she might appeal to him for help. Then a sudden shocked expression came to her charming face. "It must be Everett Lewis," she said softly.

"Of course it is—I know I look years older than you; but there was the war, and it rather battered me up; since then I've been back at my old job—teaching school—until I was bitten with a longing to come back to Little River and see the old place. Then I saw an advertisement of old Ben Brown's place open for summer boarders, so I telegraphed that I would be here on the two-thirty train today. Old Ben was there, hustled me into his wagon and ran me out to his place. First thing he said—something about my being too dressed up for a hired man—brought forth an explanation, and he was so mad because he had probably mistook the real farm hand at the station that he put me off his place—I'm on the way to the village hotel. I stopped here, Ann, for the sake of old times—you know what I mean?"

Ann blushed beautifully and nodded and offered to drive him to the village hotel. In five minutes the old car had become a wonderful chariot in which two persons rode once more through the scenes of happy youth and relived an old love story. Leaving Everett at the village hotel, Ann drove happily home again.

That all happened years ago—and the Little River bank has never yet been robbed; while Ann Richland has married Everett Lewis, and they live a very happy, almost idyllic life in the old house. Everett teaches in the village school and Ann still drives the old car to the station every day for passengers.

CIRCLEVILLE'S WATER SUPPLY NOW PROTECTED

Manager Harry Denman of the People's Ohio Utility Corporation Claims.

Manager Harry Denman of The Peoples' Utilities Ohio Corporation, is doing everything in his power to safeguard the health of Circleville people through a possible contamination of its water supply at the pumping station of the Corporation on the west bank of Darby creek.

Big improvements have already been made under the direction of Manager Denman and more are to follow and when completed that it will be the garden-spot of Pickaway County.

The receiving well at the pumping station, into which the filtered water flows from the creek has had a new concrete jacket placed around and over it, the jacket has been covered with asphalt paint to further insure the well from being polluted from the outside, the water is then pumped directly into the stand-pipe which maintains an excellent pressure all over the system in this city.

The old vitrified soil-pipes leading from the toilets of the pumping station and engineer's residence have been replaced with iron soil-pipe which further prevents the possibility of pollution from that source.

New concrete pavements have replaced the wooden pavements on the grounds and the floor, sidewalks and ceilings of the pumping station have been cleaned and repainted.

The Corporation ordered the engineer to remove all hogs and chickens from the premises and it will not be long with plenty of grass and flowers before the pumping station grounds will be an ideal place for picnic parties.

Manager Denman is proving an excellent official as he has learned many things since he has been with the Supply Company through several administrations, that have been beneficial to him and he has an excellent force to assist him in looking after the interests of the Peoples' Utilities Ohio Corporation, which insures Circleville consumers a pure and wholesome water supply even in flood-stages of the Scioto river and tributary, Darby creek.

While in Paris the club and friends will be the guests of Ambassador Herrick who is an alumnus of Ohio Wesleyan.

The party and club will return to Quebec on August 1, on the Empress of Australia.—Frankfort Sun.

European Buffer States

Poland is spoken of as a "buffer state" for the same reason that Switzerland is—that is, because of its geographical location. A buffer state is one which intervenes geographically between larger states and lessens the danger of rupture from immediate contact of their unfriendly elements.

Infinite Ever Victorious

Man's unhappiness comes of his greatness; it is because there is an infinite in him, which, with all his cunning, he cannot quite bury under the finite.—Carlyle.

Itching for Trouble

Defect in Character

A young man had applied for a certain position and his possible employer was getting some sidelights on the applicant's character. "Why, he's all right," said those who knew him best. "He's young and sometimes foolish, but he means all right."

"That is not satisfactory," said the employer. "What's the doubt about him?"

"Well," was the hesitating reply, "he rather has a habit of defying authority, just for the sake of defying it. He doesn't care particularly about breaking the rules or the laws, but he seems to have a complex which makes him antagonistic toward anyone over him. He will probably do his work well, but he will always be itching for an opportunity to sass you a bit."

"Guess that's enough," said the employer, and he looked elsewhere for an employee.—Springfield Union.

FARMER CLAIMS ROYAL DESCENT

...ion, Making $10 a Week,
Traces Blood Direct to
Saxon Kings.

Berd n. England.—King Harold's direct family descendant, Thomas W. Goodwin, a farm laborer near here, has no regrets as to the outcome of the battle of Hastings, which crushed the Saxon rule and deprived him of the right to the British crown.

"A castle means nothing to me," went on the farmer whose ancestry goes back in an unbroken line to Earl Goodwin, the father of King Harold. "and I am perfectly satisfied with my lot."

Wife Contented Also.

Mrs. Goodwin, too, is contented in her thatched roof cottage—her home since babyhood—40 miles from London. There are three children—Cyril, aged eight, is known throughout the neighborhood as "Little King Harold." "Princess" Irene is fourteen and her sister, Catherine, is four.

The Goodwins have relatives in the United States, but they lost trace of them years ago.

Goodwin first heard of the startling family news this year from the parish vicar, Rev. Kynaston Hudson, who for years has been looking up the genealogy of many of his parishioners. His lineage is vouched for by England's Doomsday book.

"I thought at first that I might gain a thousand pounds one way or another out of this 'discovery' and then I'd buy some land," said Goodwin, "but it appears now that I will never get a farthing, but still I have no complaint to make."

Earns $10 a Week.

Goodwin, who is forty-two, earns about $10 a week. His house rent is free. He has never owned an acre of land.

After the famous battle, fought chiefly with spears and battle axes, when Harold and all of his troops were slain, King Harold's family lost everything and few of the Goodwins since have been land owners.

"I have heard that, since my ancestry has been linked up with the last of the Saxon kings, some of my neighbors remarked that I was a high stepper," Goodwin chuckled to the interviewer who followed him about a 14-acre field while he drove a team hauling a barley sower, "but the fact is I was always what they call a high stepper—I acquired that habit stepping over furrows in the field."

"I had a look at Buckingham palace once, but I prefer the old house on the hill, up there."

Airplane Halts Stampede of Wild Reindeer Herd

Nome, Alaska.—How an airplane swooped down and turned the tide when a herd of 4,000 reindeer stampeded was told here by Eskimo herders. Up the Kuskokwim river near Bethel natives driving their herds toward new pastures faced total losses when the animals from no apparent cause sniffed the air and made off east.

Calves and yearlings were crushed by the rushing animals. Ten to fifteen miles beyond wild caribou would soon be passing on spring migrations. The native herders knew if the two types of animals merged the reindeer would be lost.

Out of the southern sky suddenly appeared an airplane bound toward Nome. The aviator sized up the situation and acted quickly. With a long swoop eastward he soared just above the milling animals. The leaders veered immediately and soon had the herds going in the direction of home corrals. The herders, more frightened than the reindeer, kept running in the opposite direction.

Selects Bark Diet to Live to Be 350

Tokyo.—An amazing secret of longevity is claimed to have been discovered by a Korean, regarded as a saint, named Skajkinian—amazing in its simplicity as well as in its anticipated results. For it consists in nothing but a diet of water and small cakes made of pine bark.

Upon such food Skajkinian is said to have subsisted for many years. He is now sixty years old and "still going strong," and expresses the utmost confidence in living for 250 years longer, thus rounding out three centuries and a half.

Skajkinian is a hermit who lives on Korea's holy mountain, Kongosan, and who has now come to Tokyo to tell of his method of longevity to the members of the Japanese Peer club. He says he found the secret inscribed in ancient books, which record that in this manner men have prolonged their lives to 500 years. He sleeps only two hours a day, massages himself and performs other hygienic exercises according to the holy teachings of the Buddhists, and his food consists of a few of the pine bark cakes and one or two glasses of water daily.

Watch Your Woolens!

With the summer season, the moth miller is abroad hunting a good place to lay her eggs. She prefers woolens as a good place to deposit her eggs, for there will be good feeding for her young.

Keep the cover on your upholstered furniture, brushed at least once each week, remove all cushions, and use your electric cleaner now and then. DO NOT COVER YOUR FURNITURE WITH COVERS. The young moth will crawl thru the covering and destroy your coverings before you are aware of their presence.

Place your woollen clothing and blankets in a moth-proof chest and cease to worry. We have just received a large shipment of "Treasure Chests" lined inside with red cedar, with walnut on the outside. They are beautifully finished and will add greatly to the beauty of the room, as well as serve as a protection to your clothing.
